ON A MOTHER'S PORTRAIT.

By C. H. Eaton.

Mother, dear mother, tho' I trace

Thy sainted features here,

And gaze upon thy imaged face,

I cannot shed a tear!

Yet doth remembrance of thy love,

So fondly shared by me,

Revive the heart thy precepts strove

To purify and free.

In helpless infancy thy prayer,

First threw a halo round

My cradled slumbers, and thy care

My wakening sense found.

When manhood first inscribed its mark,

In life's delusive pride,

Thy guardian hand did guide the bark,

Upon its changeful tide.

Thy parent-gaze, thy fond caress—

That cheer'd, as time unfurled

To me the icy selfishness

Of an unfeeling world—

In ever-living characters

Of grateful memory cling,

The gloomy shade of care's dark curse,

From off my heart to fling.

In weal or woe, ah, e'en in death,

Thy kindness was the same,

For the last murmur of thy breath,

Did whisper forth my name!*

The smiles of other friends may still

Be offered me to cheer;

But yet there is a void to fill,

Thou, mother, art not here!

Thou'n't gone to that pure home of rest,

Where angel-anthems ring;

Free from the ills of life thou'n't blest,

Thy Maker's praise to sing.

Dear mother! while in mind I view,

Thy soul in spheres of bliss;

I cannot wish thee to renew,

The pains and cares of this.

**Where is Charles?

Boston, June 16th, 1837.

Dear Sir.—I beg leave to acknowledge the receipt of a Circular, notifying me of an appointment as "Marshal at the ensuing National Celebration of the "Boston Young Men's Society for meliorating the condition of the Indians."

It is peculiarly gratifying to my feelings when an individual, renowned sir, like yourself, for his disinterested and constant exertions in the cause of suffering humanity, whether it be black, white, or tanned, so far satisfies my feelings but honest endeavours to promote the universal and everlasting happiness of man, as to place my name and figure, which is of the Zebide pattern, (Apollo and Adonis, sir, are obsolete,) so conspicuously before the world, as must necessarily be done, should I accept the appointment alluded to, upon the occasion of the "ensuing National Celebration."

But sir, as I am in some sort obliged to regard things that happened before the flood, and feeling a desire to be general and not partial in the administration of my duties towards the Red, as well as the Black, White, and Green,—permit me, before accepting the office in question, to inquire upon what particular congregation, concatenation, or tribe of Indians, I am called upon to shower the copious kindnesses of my profound obstruction to the cause of the society of which you so deservedly claim the honor and profits of "Chief Marshal." Whether it be simply the Penobscots, Narragansetts, Pequots, Dumginskies, Pocumtuckets, Mohehous, Mohawks, Chippewas, Choctaws, Sac, Creeks, Crunks, Cherokee, Chinese, Onondagas, Opoloos, Christians, Hiadoos, Hebrew, Turk, Mahometan, New Zealand, Lascars, Mocceans, Seminoles, Soots, Snakes, Scunks, Scamps, Foxes, Fudges, Fools, or Humbugs. If, sir, I am called upon to Marshal the advocates and "meliorate the condition" of any single tribe herein enumerated to the exclusion of any or without a due consideration of the claims of others, I shall positively decline the honor tendered. But if, on the other hand, it is contemplated to be indiscriminate and thorough, in the great good work, how readily and gracefully I shall tumble down at the feet of your cause, you yourself, sir, cannot question.

As Pope says, sir—"whatever is, is right," and as "Squire Dunfungs says"—"whatever is, isn't, isn't!" In the mean time, dear sir, I beg leave to assure you, that, on the whole, every thing considered, and dinner thrown in, if "TROUT"—the Brook kind, sir—I beg leave again to thank you for your kind, indisputably rapid invitation, and to say that, weather permitting, I shall be on hand at 9 A.M. precisely, and no mistake. De gustibus non disputandum et venter non habet aures.

With the most ultimate discrimination,

I remain your altogether circumscript genus.

There is the condition Mr Biddle's Bank was in on the 1st of May! What was it on the day he suspended specie payments? That will probably be forever kept concealed within the walls of the bank.

The question as to whether Mr Biddle's bank had the means to meet the demands which it suspended specie payments at, upon it, at the time it suspended specie payments, and the demand which would have been made upon it by holders of its notes and depositors, we imagine a few will differ with us in this belief as being hardly problematical.—

If it HAD CONTINUED SPECIE PAYMENTS THERE IS EVIDENCE THAT DEMANDS FOR SPECIE SUFFICIENT TO STOP IT WOULD HAVE BEEN MADE IN TWO HOURS ON THE DAY IT FAILED. Mr Biddle saw that his bank must inevitably stop specie payments, after he had exhausted every expedient to prevent it. It was when all hope was despaired of, of being able to save the bank, that the bank presses filled their columns to cause alarm, and create panic, having for their object to cause alarm, and create panic, and thus lead to a universal run upon the banks in every quarter by the community. The New York Express, the Courier & Enquirer, the Star, the Commercial Advertiser, and the National Intelligencer, aided by its New York Express mail letter writer, took the lead, and acted the most conspicuous parts in this flagitious scheme. And what was its purpose? It was to force other sound banks throughout the country to suspend also; thereby to cover in part the disgrace with which Mr Biddle saw he must be covered if he failed alone, which he well knew most inevitably come.

To further the consumption of his diabolical purpose, his New York cohorts were called into action. The great bank meeting took place in that city on the 25th of April. A Committee of Fifty was appointed to proceed to Washington. Similar meetings were invited in all the commercial cities; "panic" resolutions were adopted. Among the members of the committee appointed were individuals whose faces had become literally stereotyped in the service of the bank. Some, whose names are always the most prominent at bank meetings, who were members of the panic committee sent to Washington in 1834, and were members of the Congratulatory Committee invited to the Powelton Jubilee, to celebrate the bank victory in Philadelphia.

At length one bank in New York gave way; alarm increased; confusion followed; and the cry at length became general—"Save himself who can."

Thus was the object of Mr Biddle accomplished, and his apprehensions that he should be obliged to fail without company, quieted.

Again, mark the attempt of Mr Biddle to deceive the public and cover his own disgrace and the fecklessness of his bank, when he says, "HAD IT CONSULTED MERELY ITS OWN STRENGTH, IT WOULD HAVE CONTINUED ITS PAYMENTS WITHOUT RESERVE!"

A specimen of the arrogance of Mr Biddle is found in the following paragraph in his letter to Mr Adams:

"From this moment its efforts will be to keep itself strong and to make itself stronger, always prepared and always anxious to assist in receding the currency and the exchanges of the country to the point from which they have fallen. It will co-operate cordially and zealously with the Government, with the Government Banks, with all the other banks, and with any other influences which can aid in that object."

What will the sound banks of the country say, when they witness the actual condition of Biddle's bank, at the time he was traducing the whole of them, after having been the actual cause of their suspending?

BOSTON MORNING POST.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21, 1837.

LATE AND IMPORTANT FROM EUROPE.

By the packet ship Independence, Capt. Nye, at New York, we have received London papers to the 23d May, and Liverpool to the 24th both inclusive.

By the Silvie de Grasse, at New York, French papers to the 17th, are received.

Although the arrival at Liverpool of the North American packet of May 1st from New York, was announced by the Orpheus which arrived last week, yet her letters had not been delivered to the Liverpool merchants when the Orpheus sailed, and of course it was reserved for the present packet (the Independence) to inform us of the effect produced by those advices.

Five commercial houses in Liverpool largely connected with this country, have been obliged to stop payment.—Waddington, Ault, & Co., Malcomson, Bell & Co., and Phelps, James & Co.

Mr G. Thompson's private bank at Appleby, England, had stopped payment. It had been in operation forty years.

During the week ending Friday, May 19th there was a decline of 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 in American cotton, most of which decline, however, was noted in the advices by the Shakespeare and Orpheus. On Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, the market rallied, and there were extensive sales at an advance of 1 1/4.

The Bank of England was debating whether to continue its assistance to the American houses or not.

All American securities stood well in London. Our 5 per cent. State Loan command 91 per cent. U. S. Bank Stock £24 5s. Bonds 94 1/2. A lively fear exists that these may be multiplied until the exchange shall render specie shipments unprofitable, and even bother the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Cotton has now fallen to a point which attracts the attention of speculators, and some improvement in value is manifested. The stock in Liverpool is called 200,000 bales excess over same time in 1836, while the deliveries for consumption are 39,600 less. The state of trade for a long time to come will not present much advance, whatever may be thought of present prices.

In the British House of Commons on the 18th of May, Lord John Russell announced that the result of the conference with the Lords was, that they had agreed to the resolutions respecting Canada, and that, therefore, a bill would be brought into the House of Commons founded on these resolutions.

On the 13th of May, a clause in the Glasgow and Ay Railway bill, forbidding travelling thereon on Sunday, was struck out.

A motion on the same day to instruct the committee on the forgery bill to inquire into the expediency of abolishing capital punishment in all cases except murder, was rejected by one vote only.

The Liverpool Correspondent of the New York Star says—

We are in daily expectation of a change of Ministry. Earl Grey and the Duke of Richmond have been closed with the King, and the former is said to be anxious to resume office as Premier. The Whigs are afraid that Lord Durham, who is returning from Russia, will divide the radical Whig union, and have a trial of his own strength against them. Brougham has written to some friends here to say that he will soon be in office again. The Conservatives appear equally sure of a break up in the Ministry.

The King is said to have declined giving his consent for a dissolution of Parliament. His words are even reported thus—"My Lord Melbourne, if you cannot go on with this Parliament, I think you must go off."

Sir Francis Head is to be created a Baronet. Will this soothe the Canadians?

The third volume of Lockhart's Life of Scott, will appear in June. Mrs Lockhart, (Scott's eldest daughter,) died on this day week.

Old Bull, who is going to America, gave his farewell concert, in London, on Friday evening:

"The vocal performers engaged to assist him were Madame Pasta, Madlle. Blasis, Miss Cooper, Madlle. Osterberg, Signors Rubin and Lablache; and among his solo instrumental performers were Laverant, the celebrated clarinetist, Messrs. Franchomme and Rosenblum, violincello and piano forte, two of the best artists that the foreign emigration of this season has produced."

From France we have little news, save that Louis Philippe's amnesty has wrought wonders in his favor.—He can now walk through Paris without fear of assassination. A change of ministry, and a dissolution of the Chambers, is spoken of as another tapis, when the session closes.

The five accomplices of Prince Louis Napoleon in the affair at Strasburg last October, had been tried and acquitted.

In Spain, the Carlists have been defeated. Hernani has been taken by theChristinos, after a slight struggle, and Fuentarabia has fallen without any resistance. Don Sebastian and the Carlists have started for Madrid, effecting a junction with Cabrera south of the Ebro, all things being in his favor in Catalonia, Valencia and Aragon.

Paskewitsch, the tyrant governor of Warsaw, lately imprisoned a British officer for looking at his Princess through an opera glass! We do not learn that the Princess was offended.

We would like to know who that "Flagg" is that the Boston Post talks so much about.—Schenectady Reflector.

Not to know "Flagg," argues thyself unknown.—Post.

Mrs Lewis Burr, at Black Rock, Connecticut, for the third time, recently presented her husband with twins, all which, we understand, are living in good health.

What one can it mean?—The Philadelphia Ledger speaks of a paper in New York as "a blackleg and a rascal."

The Nobles of Germany formed a Temperance Society in 1600, and adopted by laws, wherein they pledged themselves never to get drunk—not to drink but fourteen glasses of wine a day, and to eat only two head meals in twenty-four hours," besides a luncheon. It was further provided that—

If any member should infringe the constitutions of the order, three staid and well conducted brothers shall pronounce on the guilt of the accused, and if found guilty, adjudge him to the greater or lesser punishment at their discretion. The greater to be, that from the date of his crime, for the period of one year he shall not be allowed to be present at any tournament or Knightly play, either horse or foot. The next punishment, that for the space of one year, he be not allowed to drink wine; and as still lighter, should such be deemed proper, the culprit shall be adjudged to forfeit the two best horses in his stable, and to pay a fine of three hundred dollars."

(3) We are very sorry that any difference should have arisen among the Deputy Marshals in regard to the order of procession at the approaching anniversary of "The Young Men's Society for improving the condition of the Indians." Mr Brown, the Chief Marshal, is anxious to harmonize the conflicting opinions, if it be possible; and we hope that his deputies will either submit to his decision upon the delicate question submitted for his consideration, or else resign—at any rate, we trust, that we may never hear repeated the language which was uttered on Monday evening, in presence of the Committee of Arrangements, viz:—"It is a pity that Micawny had n't a few Boston scalps to grace his triumphal war-dance." Such remarks from a member of a Society professing the most philanthropic views, cannot be too strongly reprobated, and indicates a maliciousness which would disgrace a "Young Indian." The attempt of one of the deputies, in his communication which we have printed on the First Page, to cast ridicule upon the Celebration, is highly censurable.

(3) We learn from the U. S. Gazette that the building intended for Cooke's Circus, Philadelphia, is a splendid affair. The whole interior devoted to the audience, and will contain it is estimated, about two thousand persons—is to be lighted by a single chandelier suspended from the dome in the centre. This will be a magnificent affair; second only, perhaps, in point of splendor, while exceeding in dimensions, the famous chandelier at the St Charles' theatre, N. Orleans. It will be illuminated with gas, which will stream upon the audience in a flood of light, through upwards of two thousand burners, creating a dazzling effect, in keeping with the gorgeous decorations of the other portions of the establishment. The diameter of the ring is forty-three feet.

Messrs Sprague and Fletcher replied at some length, and commented on various cited authorities supposed to bear against the admission of the evidence.

The Court held that the proposed evidence stood upon the same ground as a portion of the evidence respecting Stearns's doing already admitted, and was related to, and therefore was admissible.

Mr Parker resumed the examination yesterday, by proposing to put witnesses on the stand, to prove that on and about the same time that Mr Winslow made use of the pretence of the individual from the Eastward, Mr Stearns had also made the same pretence in other but similar negotiations.

Mr Hubbard objected, as such evidence could not be pertinent to the specific issue on trial. If such evidence existed it would be a distinct and specific offence against Stearns individually. It could have no reference whatever to what had passed between Mr Winslow and Mr Gordon.

Mr Parker replied, that it would prove a coincident mode of operation, and confederate custom, and show an assent of both minds, with regard to the pretence, and for the same purpose.

Messrs Sprague and Fletcher replied at some length, and commented on various cited authorities supposed to bear against the admission of the evidence.

The Court held that the proposed evidence stood upon the same ground as a portion of the evidence respecting Stearns's doing already admitted, and was related to, and therefore was admissible.

Mr Parker resumed the examination yesterday, by proposing to put witnesses on the stand, to prove that on and about the same time that Mr Winslow made use of the pretence of the individual from the Eastward, Mr Stearns had also made the same pretence in other but similar negotiations.

Mr Hubbard objected, as such evidence could not be pertinent to the specific issue on trial. If such evidence existed it would be a distinct and specific offence against Stearns individually. It could have no reference whatever to what had passed between Mr Winslow and Mr Gordon.

Mr Parker replied, that it would prove a coincident mode of operation, and confederate custom, and show an assent of both minds, with regard
